

THE BOYS

Many children have an imaginary friend. My son, however, has “the boys.” They entered our lives when he was about three years old. They are a mischievous and active group of ten, otherwise known as fingers. I think my son is one of the only children to never get into trouble; but those boys are completely another story. I can best sum it up by saying every mess or disaster has their fingerprints all over it.

One day I heard my son yelling “Help! I can’t see! I can’t see!” I ran into his room, scared to death of what I might find. And there was my son with gloves on. Evidently “the boys” weren’t so happy about the arrangement.

There are people who cross our paths every day who are spiritually blind. If they were only screaming out, “Help! I can’t see! I can’t see!” we would surely be quicker to rush to their aid. We would surely recognize the seriousness of the situation and their tremendous need. We would surely be bolder about approaching them. But they walk around looking just like you and me. They don’t even know they are blind. And we – well, we are lulled into a sense of complacency that everything is okay. And that’s just what the devil wants.

May we, as followers of the Lord Jesus Christ, be bold and courageous and feel a sense of urgency in sharing the Good News. May we have the privilege of seeing a light dawn where there had been nothing but darkness. And may His Name be lifted high.

“Satan, the God of this evil world, has blinded the minds of those who don’t believe, so they are unable to see the glorious light of the Good News that is shining upon them.”

2 Cor 4:4

And Jesus told them, ‘I have come to judge the world. I have come to give sight to the blind and to show those who think they see that they are blind.’” John 9:39

“The Lord opens the eyes of the blind.” Psalm 146:8

“One thing I do know. I was blind, but now I see.” John 9:25

“And those who had been blind could see again.” Matthew 15: 31
